ADDITIONAL ARCHITECTURAL AND STRUCTURAL DESCRIPTION:

The Holland House is a 2½ story, vernacular house built during the late-nineteenth century and characterized by various projections. The house is entered through a 1-story, flat roofed wing on the east elevation of the main block. It has a multi-panelled door with three lights. On the front facade (south gable) is a 1 story, 3 sided, bay window with narrow, one over one windows with recessed panels below. Most of the windows on the main block have two over two sash framed by shutters and projecting caps. The roof is topped by a narrow chimney and the eaves treatment consists of a boxed cornice with gable end returns. The main block rests on a brick foundation. Projecting from the east elevation is a 2 story, gable roofed wing with clapboard siding, two over two windows framed by shutters, and the same eaves treatment as the main block. The 1 story, gable roofed ell has clapboard siding, two over two windows, and rests on a fieldstone foundation. Projecting from the east elevation of the ell is a 1 story shed roofed open porch. Extending to the north of the ell is a 1 story gable roofed shed which has an attached 1 story shed on its north elevation.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (Evaluation & Historical Associations):

The E. Shaw House is a fine typical example of late 19th century building. The house plans were most probably mail order in origin, executed by a local builder.
